Understand & Identify

As a true recruitment partner we know the importance of understanding your requirement not just by the job description but also by studying the KPI's, the cultural and motivational fitment for the role. After which we identify the skills, behavior and the background form where we could source the relevant candidates.

Source and Evaluate

Gone are the days to use the active recruitment platforms and source active candidates for the niche requirements. Today, “Hiring Right” means to identify and recruit candidates who are happy in their current job. These adaptive candidates know how to blend into the company culture, not just for staying long but also to contribute for long.

Consult and Coordinate

Our research establishes the compensation and benefit structure prevalent in a given market place, that is what makes the foundation for consulting. We don't just stop there; our experienced team mediates in critical matters those could be deal breakers just before the crucial offer acceptance.

Connect and Orrient

A new job, geography and work environment are the reasons where 28% of the employees leave in the interim stage of their job. Our process ensures that candidates are comfortably inducted to avoid initial teething problems. For all the candidates we migrate across borders, there is a local orientation program that helps them to familiarize andacclimatize into the new environment.
